Novell got me in the last layoff (October 2007). I managed to get picked up pretty quickly at 3M Health Info Systems in Murray though. Kinda ironic even... I interviewed here about 4 years ago and almost got hired but didn't quite have the C++ skills they were looking for. I took your class somewhat as a result of that rejection. I'm in a different group than the one I interviewed with before but am still grateful to have a better understanding of C++.

Hope all is well with you. You are a great teacher.

Dave

:-) Some people are like slinkies... They're really useless but make you smile when you push them down the stairs. :-)

----- Original Message ----
From: Chuck Allison <chuck@freshsources.com>
To: Dave Wilbur <dvwilbur@yahoo.com>
Sent: Friday, January 4, 2008 11:57:47 AM
Subject: RE: Join my network on LinkedIn

Chuck Allison wrote:

Good to hear from you. Are you still at Novell?

On 1/4/08 10:09 AM, Dave Wilbur wrote:

Chuck,

I took your advanced C++ class a year or two ago (Steve Eaton and I were two Novell guys in your class). I was the one that semi-audited the class since I already had my BS in CS degree but wanted to get a better knowledge of C++.

Your name came up on LinkedIn based on my other connections and I would like to keep connected with you.

Hope all is well. I really enjoyed your class and learned tons!

-Dave

LinkedIn Invitations
- View original invitation
- Respond to Chuck Allison

Never miss a thing. Make Yahoo your homepage.